

PetitePosh.com

I have received many requests over the past few months to carry organic products. 100% organic cotton is not only not harmful to the people that pick and work with the cotton but it is less irritating to the baby's soft sensitive skin. With my own grandchild on the way I have become very aware and sensitive to this subject so I have added an Organic category to www.petiteposh.com.

I have been asked over and over, how do I choose my products. I have decided to carry products that I have a passion for. When I first started petiteposh.com I went to a variety of vendor shows. The first product that I fell head over heels for was Kaloo. The softness, the simplicity and the overall splendor of the Kaloo product, whether it be the insanely cuddly plush toy or the velvety silkiness of the organic cotton onesies had won me over.

I have always offered the Kaloo plush toys but have now added their line of 100% organic cotton onesies and velour pajamas. As a soon to be grandmother carrying the best quality product is my absolute priority. My daughter is due any day now so for every Kaloo purchased enter the word grandmother in the comment line for a free gift with purchase.
